Device Management Console and Dashboard: Asset visibility and accountability

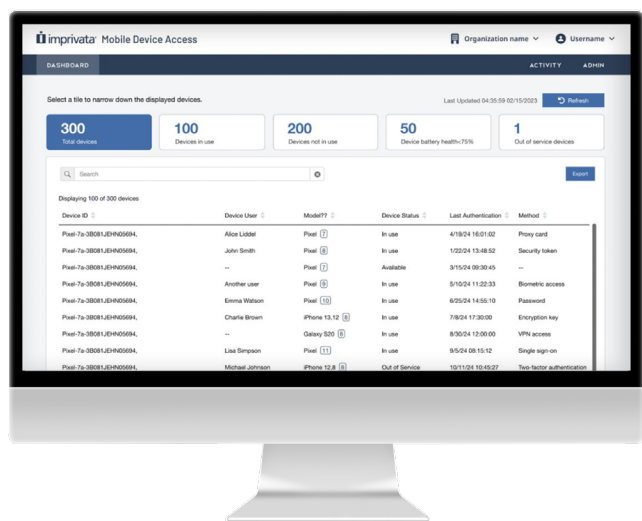

Shared mobile devices are constantly on the move. That movement is what makes them useful in many environments, where users can quickly access the devices and applications they need without causing friction in their workflow.

But this also makes it difficult for an organization to maintain visibility into its devices. A phone can be...

- Checked out for a shift
- Held longer than expected
- Left somewhere it wasn't supposed to be
- Sit unused while another team needs it

When visibility is limited, IT teams are left asking the same questions: who has this device, where does it belong, and is it being used?

The Device Management Console and Dashboard for Imprivata Mobile Device Access give teams a central view of their shared mobile device fleet, including who has the device, its status, and how many devices may need attention. This experience helps IT spend less time tracking devices manually and more time keeping devices available, accountable, and ready for the next user.

Asset management that fits the environment of shared devices

Shared device programs work best when every device has a visible story: where it should live, who last used it, whether it is active, and whether it needs attention. With MDA, frontline workers already get fast, secure access to the devices and apps they need. The dashboard extends that value by turning everyday checkout and activity data into operational insight.

- Find the device faster: If a device is overdue or missing, administrators can start with recent activity, such as who had the device last and when it was checked out, to gather context, instead of chasing spreadsheets, emails, or manual sign-out logs. Helping to reduce device loss for the organization.
- Strengthen accountability: Knowing who had a device last helps reduce risks such as device hoarding, misplaced devices, or unclear ownership without adding friction to the clinician experience.
- Utilize your device fleet more effectively: Utilization insights, such as device applications used and authentication methods, help leaders see device adoption and troubleshoot issues if needed.

Visibility leads to value

The value is simple: when shared devices are easier to see, they are easier to...

Manage at scale

IT teams gain a reliable starting point for reporting and investigations. Front line worker leadership gains confidence that shared devices are available – and that their teams are being held accountable for checked-out devices.

Usage insights can also show where device and app adoption is strong and where workflows may need support. If a department has devices that are rarely checked out, or if a critical application is not being used as expected, mobile teams have a clearer signal for where to investigate and improve.

With the Device Management Console and Dashboard, Imprivata Mobile Device Access does more than provide fast, secure access to shared mobile devices and apps. It also helps manage the devices behind mobile workflows, helping organizations reduce time spent manually searching for lost devices, improve accountability, and minimize risk.

Imprivata delivers simple and secure access management solutions for healthcare and other mission-critical industries to ensure every second of crucial work is both frictionless and secure. The Imprivata platform of innovative, interoperable access management and privileged access security solutions enables organizations to fully manage and secure all enterprise and third-party identities to facilitate seamless user access, protect against internal and external security threats, and reduce total cost of ownership.
